

HIDE AND SEEK IN STATE SENATE

This Little Game Was the Feature of the Session Yesterday Afternoon.

CALLISTER'S BILL. VICTIM.

Votes Divided When the Secretary Commenced to Read It.

A little game of hide and seek was the feature of the senate's session yesterday afternoon, when the final grind of bills was under consideration.

Lawrence looked at the calendar, and remarked: "I know how to get rid of the bunch at one fell swoop—and that is by just passing a motion eliminating the enacting clause."

Callister, however, wanted action on his local option bill, No. 215, which was a substitute for S. B. 157. When the secretary began to read it there was a rapid dwindling away of senators until not enough remained to pass the bill. Callister urged that the sergeant-at-arms be sent after them, and that they be summoned before the bar of the senate to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt. Gardner was finally captured, but his friends rushed to his assistance before the president had time to put his motion to punish.

The bill is still up for consideration and a final effort will be made in its behalf today.

Early before apparent last night that the house would not pass the senate appropriation measure as it had been sent to the senate. Therefore a conference committee was appointed, anticipating the objections that would arise to confirming the house amendment, and the senate snatched until today.

LAST BILLS PASSED.

The bills passed prior to the adjournment were almost the last that will be handled this session. S. B. 216 brought in by R. K. Smith after a conference with members of the land board, to prevent practices such as were shown to exist by the recent investigation, was passed without opposition.

MINING CONGRESS.

The International Mining congress which it is proposed to hold in New York next year, will be represented by a Utah commission, backed by an appropriation of $2,000. The mining concerns are expected to furnish a large fund to back up this sum, and it was made at this figure just so as to give state endorsement to the move. Maps and plans are hereafter to be stored with the city engineer instead of the city recorder. Hollingsworth worked in the senate for H. B. 108 to make this possible, because as he explained, the recorder's knowledge about the maps, and are unable to keep them in proper shape.

Two oil paintings, one of Gov. Wells, and one of Gov. Cutler, were authorized. The governor also vetoed a bill to compel warehouse owners to turn over taxes for goods stored in the warehouses.

HOUSE ABOUT THROUGH.

Prospects Are That Adjournment Will Be Taken This Afternoon.

The house completed its consideration of the appropriation bill at 7 o'clock last evening, and was on the point of sending the measure up to the senate for concurrence in the amendments made, when a communication was received from the upper body announcing that it refused to concur in the amendments of the house, and announced the appointment of a conference committee.

This was done in anticipation of the action of the house. The appropriation to the Agricultural college was raised $15,000 and that to the university $20,000, making the total amount to be received by the first named institution $100,000, and the latter $250,000. The amount allowed the board of health was reduced by $10,000, and the state engineer's office by $2,000. The national guard was reduced $10,000, the expense of collecting corporation tax was trimmed $3,000, and altogether deductions amounting to $22,000 were made from the senate figures, while additions aggregating $50,000 were inserted. The appropriation to the state fair association was attacked, and a fight was precipitated over the proposition to trim the amount by $10,000. It was shown, however, that this amount was absolutely necessary for the erection of a new central building to save the one already on the premises, and the cut was not made.

Another cut of $20,000 from the amount allowed by the senate for the erection of a building for the female inmates of the industrial school at Ogden was attempted, but did not carry. The Weber county members, and Speaker Joseph, who is one of the trustees of this institution, made it so plain that the building was absolutely necessary that the house concluded to leave the amount for this purpose in the bill.

HIT FOR THE PIE COUNTER.

One of the amusing features in connection with the consideration of the bill, was the blunder run for the pie counter. Speaker Joseph stood there figuratively speaking with a carving knife in hand, while the counties came up for their share of "pie" in the shape of appropriations for roads and bridges. In the bill as it came to the house, a number of counties were specified for amounts varying from $1,000 to $2,000 for the improvement of their roads. When this section of the bill was reached, Summit wanted an allowance of $2,000 for Summit county added on, and Thompson of Millard moved to include his county. Eldredge of Davis put out the "pie" for Davis. Walker of Weber, Westphal of Utah, Peterson of Cache, and Clegg of Salt Lake followed up with their pipe for the little old $2,000. These were all allowed, and on one motion the amount for each county was raised to $2,000. The fun went on for some time, when some serious member arose and said they were just simply killing the goose that laid the golden eggs. Cache county had been given $100,000; Salt Lake $250,000; Utah and Weber counties came in for large amounts and it was felt to tack all these counties in on the road appropriations. The house thereupon reconsidered its action and left the bill as it came from the upper house as far as road appropriations were concerned.

with the addition of Summit and Davis counties for $2,000 each.

OTHER BUSINESS.

A final successful attempt was made to take from the table senate bill 247, by Gardner, relating to irrigation and water right applications, and the duties of the state engineer in connection therewith. It was contended that endless litigation would ensue if this bill were not passed, and it finally went through under suspension of the rules.

VETO SUSTAINED.

The governor in a communication to the house announced that he had disapproved H. B. 265, by Hansen, providing for the organization of mutual insurance organizations in this state. His excellency said that 50 per cent of such companies in the United States had proven failures and that the experience of a large majority of these organizations was of a disastrous nature. On motion the veto was sustained.

The executive also vetoed H. B. 72, relating to poll tax, on the ground that the title was defective and that corporations were made collectors of the tax without compensation. This veto was also sustained.

H. B. 285, by Hansen, creating a state horse commission, etc., was returned with executive disapproval. The objectionable features were pointed out by the governor, who intimated that with the removal of these faults the bill would be approved. The veto was sustained, and another bill prepared and introduced at the night session covering the suggestions of the governor. Under suspension of the rules the bill was placed on third reading and passed, and was sent to the senate for its action.

THESE WERE PASSED.

The house between whiles passed the following measures:

House joint memorial No. 12, asking for a bass hatchery in Spring creek, in Weber county, and in Spring lake in Utah county.

House bill 158, providing for a detention home for children under 16 years, was passed with a few senate amendments.

House bill 139, the bill providing penalty for adult delinquents in connection with juvenile court proceedings.

House bill 248, relating to the creation of special funds by cities for the collection in payment of local improvements and prescribing the manner of issuing warrants against them.

WILL CONCLUDE TODAY.

Unless something extraordinary occurs, the legislature will conclude its labors today. The country members are anxious to get home and several of them have served notice that they will not stand for continuing the session longer than this afternoon. The important thing that remains to be done is for the house to agree on the appropriation bill. Only a few other measures remain to be acted upon, and as the force of assistants in the evening session is confidently looked forward to today.

BIG IDAHO LAND COMPANY.

Proposition to Irrigate 180,000 Acres Near Shoshone—Outlay of $1,500,000.

Major Fred B. Reed is at the Kenyon from Idaho where he is interested in the North Side Land & Water company, which is to irrigate 180,000 acres near Shoshone. He says the company is composed of Idaho and eastern capitalists, and will irrigate from the Snake river at the Milner dam. Three artificial lakes will be formed from made good provision against scarcity in the dry season; also an electric railroad is to be built from Milner to Gooding, 50 miles through the irrigated section. The irrigation feature alone involves an outlay of $1,500,000, and the entire project about four millions.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—Tonight sees the first presentation in Salt Lake of the musical farce entitled "The Impresario." It has had a long run in the east and good business is looked for here.

Yesterday afternoon and evening the phenomenal engagement of the Savage Opera company ended, and immediately after the evening performance, which closed about 9:30, the company called on for people who it is under contract to appear tonight. The final presentations were as remarkable as the original. The matinee was a success, and the evening performance was a triumph. The audience at 1:30 p. m. in the midweek at so heavy an advance in prices. At 8 p. m. the company called on for people as great as ever, and the receipts for the three performances could not have fallen far below $7,500.

Miss De Phillips sang "Butterfly" in the afternoon presentation, charmed everyone by her vocal accomplishments, although she is not the actress that Stamos is. Mr. Taylor, the new tenor, made a good impression, but is not in the Sheehan and McClellan class. The whole performance, however, stirred deeply the turn-out of ladies who beheld it.

At night Florence Easton, (who in private life is Mrs. MacLennan, wife of the tenor), Mr. MacLennan, himself, who is a most excellent pianist, on his previous visit as "Lo-hengrin," Mr. Brownlow as the servant, and Miss Houston as the soprano, all contributed to a most enjoyable performance. The orchestra, the like of which is rarely seen or heard at this distance from the great musical centers, Miss Easton's high soprano voice, which took several notes and a soprano voice, and her winsome way, thoroughly captivated her hearers, and the applause bestowed on her was fully equal to that given to the carian soprano. The latter only excels in the strong dramatic action at the close where gifts of the highest histrionic order are required. Her dramatic was fully abreast of Sheehan, which is praise enough.

Mr. Brownlow is the best consul the company has provided, and it was a pleasure indeed to hear his clear articulation, and that of Miss Easton. They gave glimpses of the plot that were not obtainable at the first presentation. The orchestra as before was a revelation in beauty of tone, volume and precision.

It is a pleasure to know that Mr. Savage's company will return to next year, when they will make a feature of the Wagnerian operas, rendered in English.

Orpheum—The following bill is announced for next week: Louise Agost and company in her French vaudeville "The Four Rascals." Four Rascals acrobatic comedians "In Africa," Cameron and Flanagan, in "On and Off," Aurie Dagwell, the girl who sings and dances; Elsie Mankey, the artist of similar intelligence; Applody symphony band, and the kiro-drome.

Grand—At the Grand theater this evening, the first presentation of "A Poor Relation," made by Sol Smith Russell, forms the bill.

Lyric—Vaudeville is running at this house with matinees every day except Sunday.

HOW THEATER WAS BUILT.

Bishop H. B. Clawson Relates Some Interesting Pioneer Experiences.

The Daughters of Utah Pioneers met yesterday at the Lion House and Bishop H. B. Clawson continued his pioneer reminiscences, the talk being perhaps the most interesting of the series. The chief feature was a recital of the events leading to the building of the Salt Lake Theater which had its beginning at the time of the presence of the United States troops. At that time there was little timber in the valley and when the army prepared to leave provisions, tents, nails, timber, and many necessities in the camp were on sale. President Young put into Bishop Clawson's hands about $4,000, and told him to purchase what the sum would buy. Bents ranging in value from $10 to $15 were obtained at $2 and $3. Nails and timber at a similar reduction, and from the sale of these tents and other things purchased, and with the help of the pioneers, the theater was built. Estimating the cost at current prices, the sum in these days would amount to $4,000, but it cost the people then far less.

Bishop Clawson also took chief part in the construction or design of the famous Early Utah grasshopper. Bishop Clawson's suggestion still broods over the head of State street. In fact few things of importance in the territory were conducted in those days without the concurrence of this enterprising and far-seeing man.

Besides these pictures, Bishop Clawson drew vivid ones of the privations and hardships of the pioneers, describing how rawhide was boiled for its sustenance and other desperate means tried in the days of strife with the Indians. He also described the grasshopper plague was graphically described, and other tests of the faith of the people. Mrs. Georgia C. Foote, a daughter of Bishop Clawson, also presented some beautiful illustrations of some of the trials which the people of the Church had endured, and the meeting was altogether most entertaining and interesting.

WESTERN MARKET LETTER.

Special Correspondence.

Kansas City Stock Yards, March 18.—The cattle market closed last week in good condition, after having suffered some depression first three days of the week on account of heavy supplies at all the markets. Receipts here dropped down after Wednesday, and the demand improved rapidly, indicating a tent strength in the market. Supply today is 11,500 head, market generally steady, some small weakness on heavy corn fed steers, while lighter steers, steers, and stockers and feeders steady to firm. The top price last week was $4.35 for choice corn fed steers, nothing choice here today, bulk of steers at $3 to $3.50, cows $2.50 to $3.50, heifers $3.75 to $5, feeders $4.25 to $5.25. Some pulp fed steers from Sugar City, Colorado, sold recently at $5.50. Colorado feeders at $4.50 to $4.95, rough hay fed steers $4.55 to $4.80. Considerable corn remains in the country and market for feeders is likely to remain strong balance of spring months.

Mutton markets are strong and active each day lately, market 15 to 25 cents higher last week, and stronger today. Supply was moderate last week at $4.00, run today 11,000. Small runs are predicted for the next month or two at this point. Today's prices set a new top on lambs, air $7.55, bulk of all the lambs here today selling at $7.00 to $7.55. Yearlings sold at $5.00 to $6.70 today, heavy yearlings at $4.25, wethers lately at $5.50 to $6, ewes $3.25 to $5.50. Along with the reduced supplies that are expected from now on, stronger prices are looked for, and $8 lambs would not be a surprising feature any day now. Packers are making new records in the slaughter of cattle this year, and require large numbers of sheep and lambs as a concomitant.

The canal pictured herewith has recently been sold at auction. After the great success of the Suez experiment the Greeks became so enthusiastic that they cut through the isthmus of Corinth, but the canal has never paid expenses and has proved to be a white elephant
